

Fee Schedule for the Allied Museum Picture and Audio/Film Archives

The Allied Museum's picture and audio/film archives can be used in conjunction with current affairs reporting, other uses, and research. Access to the archives requires a written request, an appointment, and prior approval of the Allied Museum.

The user agrees to comply with all copyright regulations when using material from the Allied Museum archives.

Much of our archival material comes from official sources. That material is in the public domain. It is out of copyright and can be used without limitation. We charge fees solely for handling and provision of such material.

For all material for which the Allied Museum holds the licensing rights, we also charge fees for use of the material. Under special circumstances, particularly for non-commercial use or a cooperative project, we are available to discuss an adjustment of those fees.
